

Il Messaggero, January 2007

Lucio Salvatore's photographic exhibition in the Caribbean Island of St Barths.

Lucio Salvatore, Italian artist, opened his latest exhibition of large scale Photographs on the Caribbean Island of Barthelemy, at To-b-Art gallery.

The event hosted important art collectors and celebrities that were on the exclusive Caribbean Island, Uma Thurman, Usher, Isabella Rossellini, Patrick Demarchelier, the Mondadori family and guest of honour Clive Davis a living music legend and discoverer of talents like Janis Joplin, Alicia Keys, Carlos Santana and Whitney Huston.

The exhibition presented a selection of Salvatore's most recent works, part of the project "Photomenology" and two videos that will be presented for the first time, documentation of Salvatore's innovative technique and creative process.

In these days, in occasion of the prestigious auction "Take home a Nude" for the financing of the New York Accademy of Art, one of Salvatore's works was the highest selling photograph of the evening overcoming Inez Van Lamswerde, Glen Luchford and other artist's works (Art-info-News).

In April 2007 Lucio Salvatore will be exhibiting his most recent artistic production in Milan, Italy.